BOLTON WANDERERS v HULL CITY

DOUGIE FREEDMAN

Hello and welcome to today's game against Hull City. I would like that welcome Steve Bruce, his players, staff and supporters as well as our match sponsors Prime Time Recruitment.

It's our first game back at the Reebok since our win over Burnley – a game in which we more than merited all of the points. There was an excellent derby-day atmosphere and the fans got right behind the team.

I thought we showed great character that afternoon. It was a real team effort to come from a goal down and win the game. We created chances and were disappointed to go a goal behind, but we changed the dynamics of the game with more movement in and around the midfield area. I felt that helped open the game up.

We then followed that home performance up with a difficult away game at Nottingham Forest. It was always going to be a challenging afternoon, given that they had just appointed a new manager. The home crowd were vocal and their level of expectancy combined to present a real challenge, but I thought we coped with exceptionally well.

There is a great spirit amongst the squad and this was epitomised by the way we went about levelling the game at Nottingham Forest. We scored a quality goal and we were very much the team in the ascendancy looking to go on and get a second.

When we had had a player sent off that changed the ebb and flow of the match and allowed Forest to go on the front foot. We didn't allow that setback to affect us – we changed the shape of the team and saw out the final minutes.

On Tuesday evening at Derby, we knew that they would play at a high tempo and move the ball quickly down the wings. As a counter to that, our game-plan was to be very positive and to stand toe-to-toe with Derby. We went with two upfront and maintained a high attacking line.

Derby have a good home record this season and I felt we dealt with their threats effectively. We were good value for our goal. I was pleased with our endeavour and how we stuck to our plan. If there was an element of disappointment, it was that we were unable to see the game out. Saying that, even after their equaliser we created chances and could have scored a second.

Our away support over the last two games has been outstanding. We were backed by a large and very loud travelling support and I thank all of the fans for making the journeys.

So, we come in to today's game on the back of an undefeated run of three games. We now want to put together a run of wins, something that I know we are capable of.

Doing okay isn't good enough for me, or for the fans of Bolton Wanderers. Our performances over the last six games have been good, but I want more. We have been working hard on the training ground and we are looking forward to this run of two games a week that we have ahead of us.

As ever, thanks for your continued support and backing.

KEVIN DAVIES

Good afternoon and welcome back to the Reebok Stadium.

We're on a nice little run at the minute. We picked up two decent draws away from home against Derby and Nottingham Forest and prior to that it was great to secure a home win against my old team-mate Sean Dyche's Burnley side.

It is nice to be unbeaten in three, but we know at this stage of the season we need to be winning games that we are in control of.

The Forest game was a great team performance. It is always difficult when the opposing team have just appointed a new manager, and even more so when it's a popular manager returning for a second spell in charge.

Against Derby on Tuesday evening we feel we should have won; as it was another game we controlled for long periods. It's important that we now look to take maximum points from these next two home games and, as ever, we will need your support.

The squad is looking very healthy at the moment and it is great to see Stuart Holden, Mark Davies, Josh Vela and big David Wheeler back after their lengthy spells out. They, along with our new signings, have bolstered the squad and we have healthy competition for places right throughout the team.

I believe that the environment we have at the club really helps the new boys settle in fast. Throughout my time at the club this has always been the case.

Craig Davies has played well and has scored two vital goals for us and Craig Dawson has been very impressive, both defensively and going forward. We've also got Steve De Ridder, who has impressed everyone and I think it is clear that he has the ability to make things happen.

With the amount of games coming up we all need to be prepared to play our part and look to finish the season on a real high.

I would finally like to give my mate Dave Melling a mention. Dave has maintained the training ground for years, keeping it in tip top condition for us and is very famous for his beige corduroy trousers!

Last year we spent hours out on the grass searching for my wedding ring which had come off during training. He eventually found it and got me out of a big hole! He has recently retired and become unwell, so I want to wish him all the best from myself and the lads. Dave, you are a very brave man.

Enjoy the game,

BOLTON WANDERERS INTERNATIONAL SOCCER SCHOOL

The Bolton Wanderers International Soccer School is on its travels again, this time visiting Sam's Soccer Academy in Jakarta, Indonesia.

The academy was established five years ago by husband and wife IBO teachers, Harris and Samantha Johnson. Originally, SSA was run as a summer holiday programme for their students, but very quickly evolved into a mission.

The ISS are excited about the new venture and will be delivering a week's long development camp and holding a coach education workshop. Dave Bailey, ISS manager, commented: "We are looking forward to visiting Sam's Academy as this part of the world is soccer crazy and we hope to bring new fans to Bolton Wanderers."

FROM BELGIUM TO BOLTON

What were his first impressions of Bolton? How good can the Belgian national team be? What does 'De Ridder' mean? And was there really a Twitter campaign to keep him at De Graafshap?

WE PUT YOUR QUESTIONS TO...

STEVE DE RIDDER

Belgium-born winger Steve De Ridder knows what it takes to earn promotion to the Premier League. The 25-year-old completed the feat last season with Southampton, playing an integral role in their rise back to England's top flight making 36 appearances and scoring three goals. Now the skilful midfielder is hoping to make a similar impact during his loan move at the Reebok.

Two days after completing the deal with the Trotters, De Ridder made his Wanderers debut as a second-half substitute in their recent trip to Watford. The Belgian's impact was praised by many, and his reward for the 15-minute cameo was a start in the Whites' last game at the Reebok against Burnley, where he turned in another impressive display in the derby day victory.

The official matchday programme grabbed a minute with the Trotters' new loan signing to ask him your questions.

What is your ambition with Bolton and have you set a goal to achieve?

Grant Green via Facebook

I've been here at Bolton for a month now and it's been so refreshing. The loan move was exactly what I needed because I hadn't been playing a lot.

I was getting on the bench and playing the last ten minutes or so, but obviously that's not what you want as a player. My ambition with Bolton is to regain full match fitness and to help the team with assists or goals.

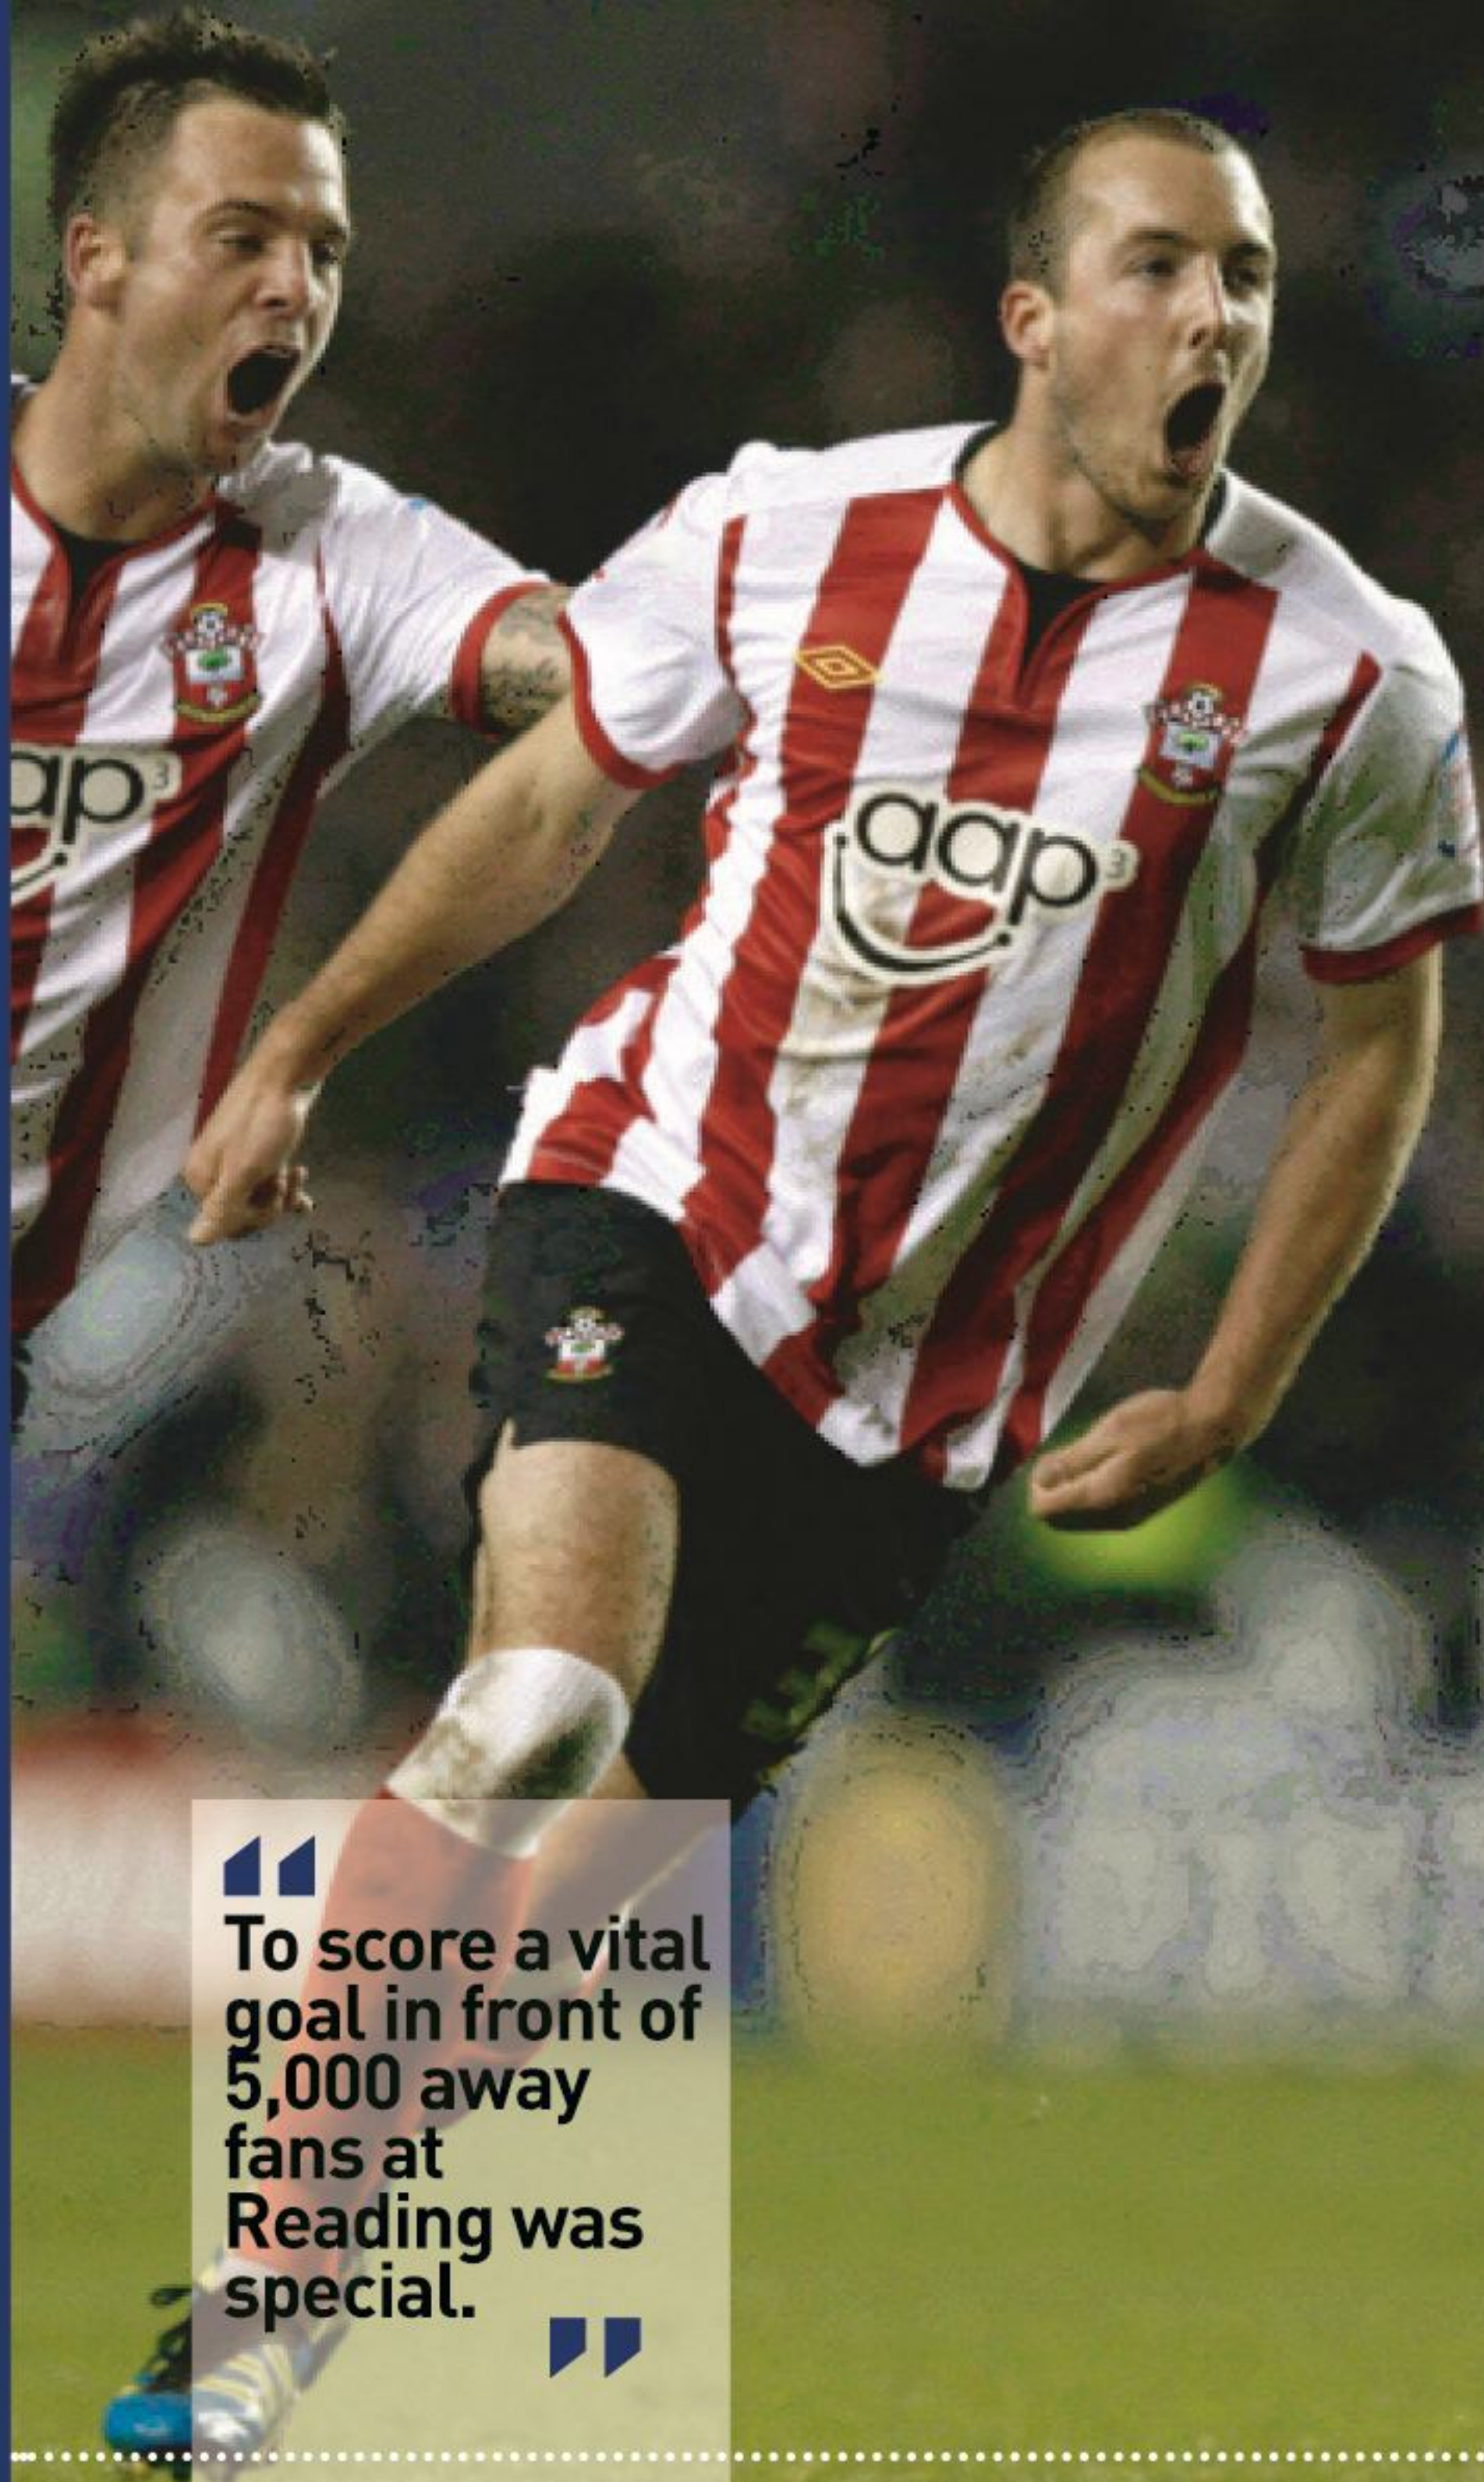

It's all about confidence; once you start to play with confidence you can put a run of form together. As a player, you want to be important for the team and you want to help them win matches.

Hopefully I can be important for Bolton and play my part in helping the team push up the table.

STEVE DE RIDDER

To score a vital goal in front of 5,000 away fans at Reading was special.

Who has helped you settle in at Bolton the most? Who's your closest friend in the squad?

Adam Riley via Twitter

So far I've been close with Jan Gregus and Medo because we are all staying in the hotel at the moment.

Medo and I share lifts to training in the mornings and then we just hang out together in the afternoon. But the whole group has been great and really welcomed me to the club.

What do you think you bring to the team?

Ste Pendlebury via Facebook

I used to be a striker in a 4-4-2, so I can play either up there or out wide, but the wing has become my position and I'm enjoying playing out there.

I prefer to be on the left, but I hope I can do well on the right as well. I'm right-footed so what I like to do is cut in from the left and get the ball on my natural side.

How has training been since you arrived at Bolton?

Adam Chelton via Facebook

Training since I've been here has been really good. I've been trying hard to regain my match fitness and it's been good to feel appreciated again.

A fresh atmosphere was what I needed and I can feel that I'm getting sharper because I'm free in my head and I hope that I can continue to perform on the field.

Who is the biggest joker at the club?

Jessica Franks via Twitter

That would be Chris Eagles. He's a good guy and there's never a dull moment when he's around.

What is your favourite goal you've scored?

Chris Smith via Facebook

I would probably say the goal I scored for Southampton against Reading. We were 1-0 down and then had our captain sent off with about 15 minutes to go, but I managed to get an equaliser in front of about 5,000 travelling fans.

It was a big game for us, because Southampton is quite close to Reading on the map and also because in the end we were together at the top of the table; it was a good point for us.

How old were you when you got your first professional contract?

Paul Bainbridge via Twitter

When I was 16 I went to Gent, and I broke into the first team when I was 18. But because I was still very young I didn't really get too much of a chance.

If you're young and you want to play and you're not getting a chance then it's often a good thing to move on.

I went on loan to a lower division club and did well there which meant I got a move to De Graafschap in the Dutch Eredivisie.

Was it difficult making the transition from the Netherlands to England?

Adam Copsey via Facebook

At the time there was a lot of interest from top teams in Holland and Belgium, but when a team in England wants you you have to listen – it's where everybody wants to play.

It's always a big decision when you move to another club, but the fact that I could speak English was a factor that helped make up my mind.

If you move abroad you will always have to adapt to a new social culture and a new football culture. I think it would have been much harder if I hadn't spoken the language, but I did so it was a lot easier to settle in – both on and off the pitch.

What do you do when you are away from football?

Matt Rathbone via Email

To be honest, when you are training so much you don't have too much time to do too many other things.

When we finish training what I like to do is to just go home, relax and go out for dinner because I really love food. I also enjoy talking to friends and family back home and watch movies – random things that footballers do.

Do you cook? If so, what is your signature dish?

William Fox via Twitter

I can cook little bit, but I'm not a star chef, so going out to restaurants is good for me. When I do cook, I would say that my signature dish would be some sort of Italian cuisine.

Which team did you support as a boy?

Joseph Gibbons via Twitter

I used to like Gent, so to play for them was fantastic because as a young boy you want to play in the team you support and it was a tough decision to leave.

Is it true that 'De Ridder' means 'knight rider' in Belgium?

Will Parton via Twitter

No. 'De Ridder' just means 'Knight'.

I heard that some De Graafschap fans produced a series of Steve De Ridder inspired t-shirts, is this true? Did you know anything about it?

Richard Bagwell via Email

After my last year in De Graafschap the fans didn't want me to leave and they started a campaign on twitter to get me to stay and they also made t-shirts.

They promised me a lot of random, funny things if I was to stay at the club. It was hard to leave because the fans were so good to me. I didn't force the move and in the end they were happy for me to go on to new things.

Do you have any pre-match rituals?

Jonny Purcell via Facebook

I'm not really a superstitious guy. Before a game I don't have any rituals. I just try to relax, have a good meal and focus on the game ahead.

Are you a good dancer? Do you move to De Rhythm on the dancefloor?

Luke Stones via Facebook

Unfortunately not, I'm a terrible dancer.

Where do you see yourself in five years' time?

Alexander Greensmith via Facebook

In five years' time I will be turning 31, so I will probably be at my last club. But I don't know really! I hope that I will still be playing in England and that I don't suffer a serious injury that makes me stop playing football.

I believe I have the best job you can have. I wake up, go to the training ground, work hard, have banter with the lads and then you come home and relax.

I've worked hard to get to where I am, but I realise that I am blessed with an unbelievable job.

Would you say the recent flourish of Belgian talent coming to England has influenced the game back home? And is it a target for you to get into the national team?

Phil Fletcher via Twitter

For all these players to come together at the same time is really unbelievable and gives us a good chance to qualify for the World Cup, which would be nice because it's been more than ten years since we qualified for a big tournament.

Belgium are leading the qualification group at the moment, but there are still some games to play so the team must stay focussed.

It would be good to be an outsider in Brazil and hopefully, if we are there, we can get some good results.

I played in the national team at under-17, under-18, under-19 and under-20 level with the likes of Simon Mignolet, Jan Vertoghen and Kevin Mirallas, who have been called the golden generation of Belgian footballers.

We've got some really talented players at the moment. There's also the likes of Eden Hazard and Marouane Fellaini so hopefully the national team can push on in the next few years.

DERBY COUNTY V WANDERERS

Wanderers claim a second draw in the space of three days after the Whites recorded a well-earned point at Derby County.

Craig Dawson appeared to have given the Trotters the lead in first-half injury time after Jay Spearing's free-kick was deflected into the net past keeper Adam Legzdins, but Derby defender Richard Keogh was later credited with an own goal.

Wanderers would go close to doubling their advantage in the second period courtesy of David Ngog, before the hosts claimed a late equaliser.

Jamie Ward was able to sneak round the far post to nod home a cross past the in-form Adam Bogdan, who produced a series of top saves to keep the Rams at bay, but it wasn't enough as the two teams shared the spoils at Pride Park.

MANAGER'S REACTION:

“We were very committed, worked hard and there wasn't a lot between the two sides. We're undefeated in three and certainly tonight, and at Nottingham Forest, we could have won the game.”

FLASHBACK

WANDERERS V HULL
16 MAY 2009

Gretar Steinsson celebrates with team-mates Gary Cahill and Matt Taylor after scoring the opening goal against Hull City in the final home game of the 2008/09 Premier League season. The Iceland international's slightly deflected low 22-yard strike put the Trotters ahead, but Wanderers were denied victory against Phil Brown's side when Craig Fagan slid in a shot to equalise after Danny Shittu's error.

Website: www.barnsleyfc.co.uk

Current Season's Home Record: P16 W5 D4 L7

Home Form Guide: LWWWW

Top scorers: Chris Dagnall (9), Stephen Dawson, Jacob Mellis (both 4)

Barnsley have enjoyed a dramatic change of fortunes under new boss David Flitcroft, and a lot has changed around Oakwell since the Tykes visited the Reebok in November's 1-1 draw.

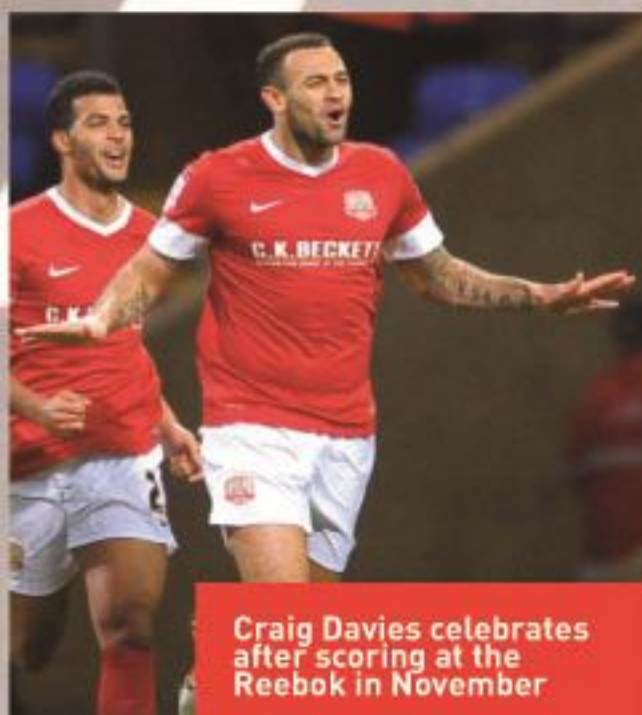

Goalscorer that afternoon, Craig Davies, has since left the South Yorkshire-based side to join Dougie Freedman at Bolton, scoring his first goal against Burnley - but he isn't the only big name to exit the club.

Keith Hill was relieved of his duties as manager on 29 December after the Tykes' defeat to Blackburn left the side rooted to the bottom of the table.

Bolton-born Flitcroft was appointed caretaker boss and, after securing two wins in his opening three games, the 39-year-old was named as the new manager on a permanent basis.

Since taking over the reins, Flitcroft and his side have enjoyed an amazing run of results, winning eight of their last nine games and now sit above the drop zone.

Against all the odds, Barnsley now have a realistic chance of avoiding relegation.

Craig Davies celebrates after scoring at the Reebok in November

Getting There - By Road: Leave the M62 at junction 25 and join the B6118, before merging onto the A637 and follow signposts for the M1. Join the M1 at junction 38, before exiting at junction 37. Take the A628 towards Barnsley and you will eventually see the ground on your right.

Parking: There are a couple of car parks located at the ground, but they are mainly for permit holders only. In between the ground and the MetroDome is a car park for visiting supporters, called Queens Ground, which costs £3 for cars and £6 for mini buses. Otherwise, you can try parking at the MetroDome itself, although it can be slow to get out of after the game has finished, or street parking.

By Train: Barnsley railway station is about a ten minute walk away. This station is served by trains running between Sheffield & Leeds. From the train station, turn left away from the town centre and head towards the bridge that the dual-carriageway runs over. Go under the bridge and turn left up the slip road and then take the first road on the right and head towards the Metro Dome leisure complex at the top of the hill.

Where To Drink: The Dove Inn on Doncaster Road admits visiting supporters. This pub, which is listed in the CAMRA Good Beer Guide, is an outlet for the Old Mill Brewery. It is only a five minute walk away from the ground down Oakwell Lane and is happily frequented by both home and away fans. Further along Doncaster Road is the Barnsley East Dene Working Mens Club, which is happy to admit visiting supporters without entry charge. You can also leave your car there at a cost of £1.50. Located between the Dove Inn and the Working Mens Club is a handily placed cafe.

BOLTON WANDERERS TOP TENS

LONG-NAMED PLAYERS

Nearly ten years ago Greek international Stylianos Giannakopoulos, or Stelios for short, left behind the lure of regular silverware and Champions League football with Greek champions Olympiakos to sign for Wanderers.

The winger went on to enjoy five successful seasons at the Reebok, before leaving to join today's opponents Hull City. In this issue we take a look at ten other players with similarly tricky names to pronounce.

WORDS: MARK HEYS

◀ Kostas Konstantinidis - 2002

Another player to have played for the Greek national team was central defender Kostas Konstantinidis, arriving on loan from Hertha Berlin. But after just three appearances, and a sending off at Everton, he returned to the Bundesliga.

Mixu Paatelainen - 1994-1997 ▶

Crowd favourite Mixu Paatelainen scored in the famous play-off final win over Reading in 1995. The next two years were disrupted by injury, but he returned to head in an equaliser at Manchester City in April 1997 which sent Bolton on their way to sealing the First Division title.

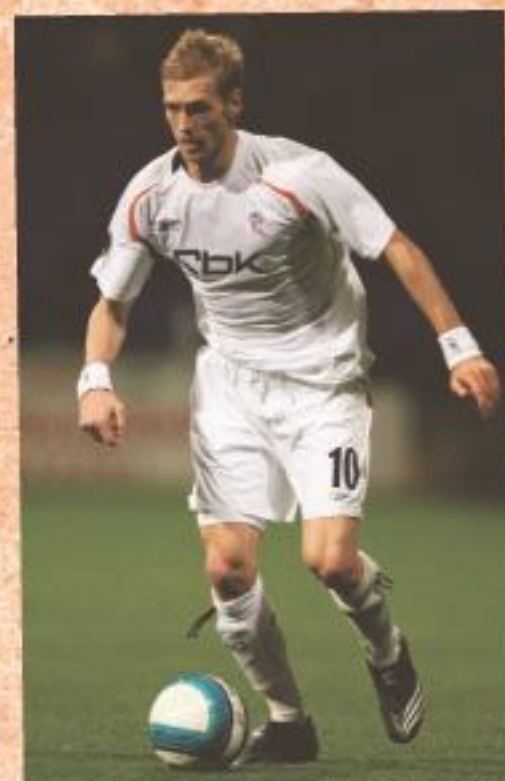

◀ Jussi Jaaskelainen - 1997-2012

The legendary goalkeeper made over 500 appearances in 15 years as a Wanderer. Jaaskelainen turned in countless impressive performances and one particularly memorable game came against Hull in November 2008, when he made a number of fine saves to preserve a 1-0 lead.

Christian Wilhelmsson - 2007-2008 ▶

Lightning-quick winger Wilhelmsson joined Wanderers in the summer of 2007 on loan from French side Nantes. He remains a part of Sweden's national team and, since leaving Bolton, has played for a number of clubs including Deportivo La Coruna, LA Galaxy and present employers Baniyas of the United Arab Emirates.

◀ John Gope-Fenepej - 2000

Another arrival from Nantes, John Gope-Fenepej was brought in as cover in September 2000. The New Caledonia-born defender made just two brief substitute appearances for Wanderers against Barnsley and Norwich before heading back to France with Creteil.

Jared Borgetti - 2005-2006 ▶

The striker, full name Jared Francisco Borgetti Echavarría, only scored twice in 19 league games during his year-long spell in English Football, but had a knack of popping up in the cup competitions with goals in the FA Cup, League Cup and UEFA Cup.

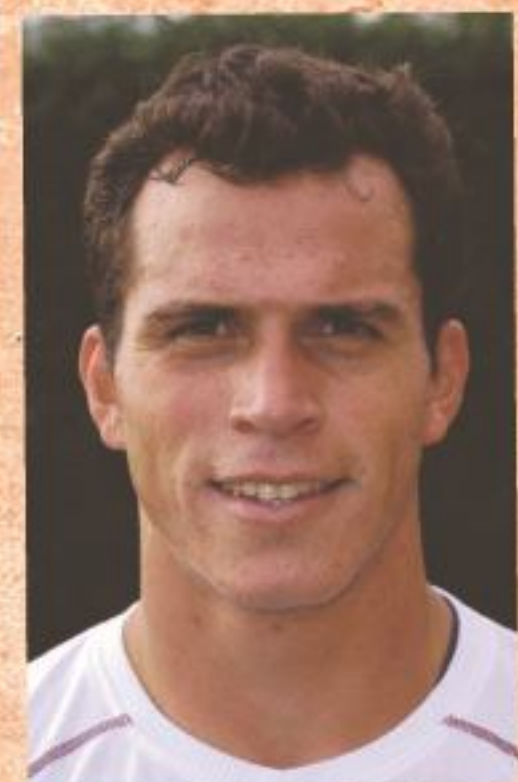

◀ Akinori Nishizawa - 2001-2002

Although Japanese star Akinori Nishizawa never appeared in the league for Bolton, perhaps the most telling contribution of his three games at the Reebok came when he scored on his debut in a League Cup tie against Walsall.

Gaetano Giallanza - 1998 ▶

Gaetano Giallanza could have etched his name in Reebok folklore in a match against Leeds United on his Whites debut in April 1998. The Swiss-born striker smashed the ball past Nigel Martyn in injury time to score what he thought was a perfectly legitimate equaliser, only to see his effort ruled out for offside, ensuring a 3-2 win for the Yorkshire side.

◀ Dwight Pezzarossi - 2004

The Guatemala striker was offered a short-term contract until the end of the 2003/04 season. He was named on the bench for games against Newcastle and eventual champions Arsenal, but the South American didn't get any game time for the first team.

Sebastien Puygrenier - 2009 ▶

The central defender was recruited by Gary Megson in January 2009, signing from Russian club Zenit St Petersburg. He made his debut in a derby dual against Manchester United and scored in his next Reebok appearance against Tottenham Hotspur.

JASON McATEER

The commanding central midfielder, with a larger-than-life personality, enjoyed three prosperous years with Wanderers. And after calling time on his playing career, the former Republic of Ireland international has continued to put his character to good use in front of a camera.

It turned out to be a masterstroke from Wanderers' scouts when they plucked a young Jason McAteer, 20, from non-league side Marine in 1991.

The midfielder enjoyed a highly successful period with Wanderers, playing an integral part in the club's promotion to Division One. He repeated the feat two years later as the Whites returned to England's top flight after defeating Reading in the play-off final.

Bolton reached the quarter-finals of the FA Cup in the 1993/94 season, before McAteer left Burden Park to join boyhood club Liverpool.

He would go on to enjoy spells with Blackburn Rovers and Sunderland, before ending his career at Tranmere Rovers in 2007.

After concluding his playing career, McAteer, like many other ex-professionals, began a new venture into the world of sports broadcasting.

The 41-year-old currently commentates on Liverpool matches for the club's television channel, LFC TV, alongside John Barnes.

THEY NOW?

MICHAEL JOHANSEN

After calling time on his playing career at the age of 31, the former Denmark international wanted to remain involved in football and his stint with Wanderers convinced him to take an unusual career route, but one which kept him in touch with the sport he holds close to his heart.

Johansen began his career at Kjobenhavns Boldklub in Denmark making his debut in 1990.

A year later, the Dane joined Boldklubben 1903. Johansen's talents were quickly spotted by FC Copenhagen who offered him the opportunity to join his childhood club.

After a further four seasons in the Danish capital, Bolton signed Johansen for £1.25m, and he immediately become a fans' favourite earning the nickname 'Smurf'.

Johansen spent four years at the Reebok, making over 150 appearances, scoring 20 goals.

The midfielder retired from the game in 2004, and he decided that he wanted to remain in the

WANDERERS: SIDDALL, RITSON (WALSH), DUNNE, GREAVES, NICHOLSON, ALLARDYCE, BYROM, WHATMORE, G JONES, REID, WALDRON

On this day thirty-seven years ago, the third of three epic FA Cup ties between Wanderers and Newcastle United came to its conclusion.

A second replay was required after 210 minutes of action could not separate the two sides.

The original tie saw a thrilling 3-3 draw at Burnden Park, before Wanderers made the trip to Tyneside where they fought valiantly to secure a goalless draw after extra-time.

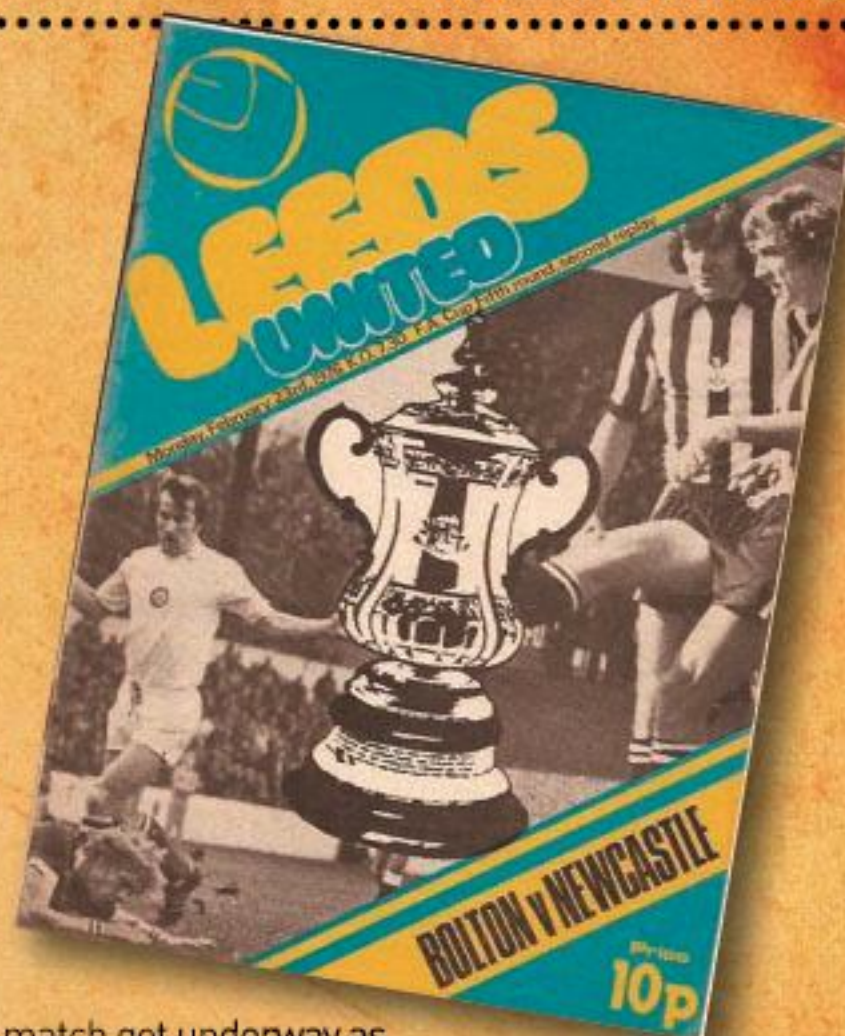

With there being no penalty shoot-outs in those days, the Whites and the Magpies played out the final instalment of the trilogy at Leeds United's Elland Road.

Both sides were going great guns in their respective leagues. Bolton sat proudly at the top of Division Two, only suffering two defeats in 28 games, while Newcastle were comfortable in the top-half of the old Division One, and had also reached the final of the League Cup.

Wanderers manager Ian Greaves had to deal with the loss of two important players ahead of the journey into Yorkshire. It was a blow for the Trotters to lose the in-form Paul Jones and winger Peter Thompson was also forced to withdraw due to illness. Peter Nicholson replaced Jones, while Alan Waldron returned to the starting line-up to fill Thompson's boots.

As kick-off approached, a bumper crowd was causing chaos on the roads and surrounding areas. Problems began when traffic on the M62 between Bolton and Leeds came to a standstill. Officials had underestimated the number of travelling Wanderers fans, with so many not wanting to miss this evenly balanced cup tie.

Before the match, many supporters abandoned cars and coaches on an unopened stretch of the M62 and raced to the ground.

The match got underway as scheduled and once again there was little between the two sides.

The Magpies took the lead when Micky Burns produced a moment of magic late in the first half, curling a fine shot around Barry Siddall.

Captain John Ritson and Garry Jones both went close for Bolton soon after the break, but 12 minutes into the second half, and against the run of play, Newcastle doubled their lead when Alan Gowling's low header found its way into the back of the Bolton net.

Wanderers found themselves back in the hunt when leading scorer Garry Jones halved the deficit with a brilliant goal. The forward picked the ball up outside the Whites' box and embarked on a magnificent solo run, carrying the ball the length of the field before shooting past a helpless Mike Mahoney in the Newcastle net.

The remaining minutes saw Bolton camped in the opposition half. Neil Whatmore and the evergreen John Byrom both watched half-chances go narrowly wide of goal. But in the end it was a bridge too far and full-time arrived, bringing to an end three superb cup ties. Having proved they could compete against top flight opposition, it was now a case of turning attention towards promotion.

Spurs 4 - 8 Wanderers

Wanderers' youngsters progressed to the quarter-finals of the FA Youth Cup after running riot against Spurs at White Hart Lane.

David Lee and Tony Kelly's side were ruthless in front of goal, netting an incredible eight times to stun the 2,500 watching spectators.

single goal on the stroke of half time. An avalanche of goals followed after the restart, as Wanderers found the net three times in a devastating 15 minute period.

Lester converted from an acute angle before Youngs saw a deflected effort wrong-foot the Tottenham stopper to make it 5-2.

On 64 minutes Walker expertly fired home the sixth, completing his hat-trick courtesy of a 20-yard free-kick, before the hosts reduced the arrears with two quick-fire goals.

Tom Walker and Tom Youngs (pictured left) both bagged hat-tricks, whilst Chris Lester and Zach Clough were also on target on an incredible evening in the capital.

But any hopes of a fight back for Tottenham were dashed when Youngs sealed his treble with an unstoppable drive after cutting in from the left flank.

Clough capped a remarkable night by tapping home the rebound following a stinging drive from Elliot Newby as Wanderers' under-18s booked their place in the competition's last eight.

Despite falling behind in the early throes, the Baby Whites rallied and were level midway through the opening period when Walker fizzed home a sweet strike from the edge of the area.

And seconds later Youngs rode a number of challenges on his way towards the Spurs goal before coolly slotting beyond the despairing dive of the goalkeeper.

Walker then grabbed his second to make it 3-1, expertly dispatching a loose ball from the edge of the area, though the margin was reduced to a

UNDER-18S

FOREST V WANDERERS

Wanderers battled to a hard-fought 1-1 draw at Nottingham Forest, with Craig Davies again coming off the bench to score a crucial goal.

Forest took the lead just before the hour mark when Andy Reid fired home a low, left-footed drive to the delight of new Reds boss Billy Davies.

As was the case in the victory over Burnley, Freedman introduced Craig Davies and David Ngog as second half substitutes, and the pair combined to produce an equaliser in front of the 1,500 travelling Wanderers fans.

Darren Pratley released Ngog down the right and the Frenchman cut the ball back for the in-coming Craig Davies who found the bottom corner with a first-time strike.

Wanderers pushed forward in search of a winner, but the task was made a little harder when Marcos Alonso was given his marching orders with ten minutes still to play for a second bookable offence. But despite the dismissal, Bolton stood firm to grind out a point.

NORWICH CITY WANDERERS

Wanderers under-21s saw off their Norwich counterparts 2-0 in East Anglia, with Matt Mills captaining the team as he stepped up his recovery from injury.

Tom Eaves and Adam Blakeman scored the goals as Jamie Fullarton's side ran out comfortable winners at Colney Training Centre and maintained their unbeaten record since returning from the Christmas break.

The Trotters had the ball in the net within the game's opening period, but Oscar Threlkeld was left disappointed as he saw the offside flag raised after putting the finishing touches to a nice move with frontman Jack Sampson.

After a lively start to the match it was the Whites who took the lead soon after the break courtesy of striker Eaves. Centre-back Mills, who made his second appearance since returning from injury, headed the ball down for Eaves and the forward found the back of the net from close range.

Wanderers controlled large periods of the second half and put the game beyond doubt in the final minute. Blakeman fired in a low free-kick from the edge of the area, skipping past the out reached Jed Steer before hitting the back of the net.

OPPOSITION SUMMARY

Now under the management of the experienced Steve Bruce, Hull City find themselves in a good position to secure a play-off spot and still in the hunt for automatic promotion.

The Tigers had a mixed start to the season, beginning their campaign with a 1-0 victory over Brighton before being beaten by the same scoreline away to Blackburn Rovers. Consecutive wins over Bolton, Millwall and Leeds were followed by three straight defeats, but they soon added consistency.

A 3-2 win at Bruce's former employers Birmingham in mid-November was the first of four consecutive away victories, the other three successes coming on their trips to Nottingham Forest, Watford and Derby.

The Humberside club struggled at the turn of the year, with their only victory in January coming against Leyton Orient in the FA Cup. But they managed three wins from their first four February fixtures to get their push for automatic promotion back on track.

VISITING VIEW

Andy Dalton, editor of Hull City fan site Amber Nectar, is thrilled with the way the Tigers have performed in the first half of the season and believes that promotion could well be on the horizon for Steve Bruce's side.

He said: "It's been a very good season so far. The quality of football has been consistently very high, and if City just had a slightly better end product, we'd probably be top. We couldn't really have asked for much more and Steve Bruce has exceeded all expectations - both on and off the pitch.

"There's every reason to think we can win promotion. Cardiff have bounded away from everyone and Leicester look very strong but the play-offs turned out okay for us in 2008, so if we have to settle for that we'll be quietly confident.

"Given our position, I expect City will be going for the win today. Hopefully that'll make for an open game, although the fact we haven't won at Bolton since the 1930s is a reminder that it'll be tough. A point is never a disaster on the road in this division, which is how I fancy it'll end up. I think it will be 1-1."

THE MANAGER STEVE BRUCE

Born: Northumberland, England
Date of Birth: 31/12/1960

Former Manchester United defender Steve Bruce has been in charge at the KC Stadium since June last year, and he will be hoping to add Hull City to the list of clubs that he has managed in the top flight of English football.

Bruce ended his playing days at Sheffield United and began his managerial career at Bramall Lane in July 1998. He moved to fellow Yorkshire outfit Huddersfield less than a year later before embarking on very brief stints, first with Wigan and then Crystal Palace. After just eight games in charge of the Latics and 18 in the Selhurst Park hot-seat, he moved to Birmingham City where he led the Blues to the Premier League via the play-offs in 2002.

He returned to Wigan in November 2007 and lasted 18 months before being head-hunted by Sunderland. A frustrating two-and-a-half-year reign on Wearside came to an end in November 2011 and, after a short time away from the game, he was appointed at Hull last summer.

STAR MAN ROBERT KOREN

Born: Slovenian
Date of Birth: 20/09/1980
Position: Midfielder
Signed from: West Brom (2010)

Slovenian international Robert Koren joined the Tigers from Premier League side West Bromwich Albion on a free transfer in 2010 and the midfielder scored seven times in his debut season at the KC Stadium.

He netted a further 10 goals the following campaign, becoming a firm favourite with the City faithful. The 32-year-old, who has earned over 60 caps for his country, started his career with Slovenian side Dravograd before having spells at Celje and Lillestrom ahead of his move to the Baggies in 2007.

ONE TO WATCH JAY SIMPSON

Born: English
Date of Birth: 01/12/1988
Position: Striker
Signed From: Arsenal (2010)

Former Arsenal forward Jay Simpson made the switch to the KC Stadium in 2010 after spending time on loan with Millwall, West Bromwich Albion and Queens Park Rangers.

The 24-year-old returned on loan to Millwall for part of the 2011/12 season, but was welcomed back to the KC by Steve Bruce at the start of the current campaign. The pacey frontman has repaid the faith shown in him by finding the net six times this term for the Tigers.

ANDY DAVIDSON (1952–1968)

Nationality: Scottish

Date of Birth: 13/07/1932

Position: Defender

Scottish defender Andy Davidson enjoyed 16 seasons with Hull City, and the Scotsman is the club's all-time record appearance holder after featuring on a total of 579 occasions. These statistics could well have been even greater had it not been for a series of injuries and often played through the pain. Even with the time he spent on the sidelines, Davidson will go down as a club legend.

KEN WAGSTAFF (1964–1976)

Nationality: English

Date of Birth: 24/11/1942

Position: Striker

Longwith-born forward Ken Wagstaff made 434 appearances for the Tigers and scored 197 goals after joining from Mansfield Town in 1964. Hull paid £40,000 for the prolific forward, who is second only behind Chris Chilton in Hull's list of all-time record goalscorers. He ended his career with Mansfield with a record of a goal every other game, and Wagstaff's achievements were further recognised in Hull's 2004 centenary celebrations as he was voted as the club's greatest ever player.

THE LAST MEETING

Date: 01/09/2012 Result: Hull City 3-1 Wanderers Venue: KC Stadium

Wanderers took the lead at the KC Stadium but ended up on the wrong end of a 3-1 scoreline last September. Chris Eagles' free-kick put the visitors ahead, but the hosts were back on level terms ten minutes later after a strike from Sone Aluko. Hull flew out of the blocks in the second half with goals from former Bolton man Abdoulaye Faye and Stephen Quinn securing the win for Steve Bruce's side.

R

THE GROUNDS

RIVERSIDE

Middlesbrough's 34,998 capacity stadium was opened in 1995 following new rules that required all top flight football stadia to be fully seated. When the Trotters last visited Teesside in October, they led at half-time thanks to a goal from Chung-Yong Lee, but a brace from Scott McDonald meant the Whites supporters who made the trip returned home empty handed.

RACECOURSE GROUND

Having held Wales' first home international fixture on 5 March 1877, Wrexham's stadium was officially recognised by Guinness World Records in 2008 as the oldest football ground in the world to hold an international game. Wanderers last visited in May 1988 for a Fourth Division clash; a match the Whites won 1-0.

RED STAR STADIUM

Bolton travelled to Serbia to play Red Star Belgrade in a 2007 UEFA Cup clash. Gary Megson's side battled to a 1-0 win in the 55,538 capacity stadium, with Gavin McCann scoring the only goal of the game. The victory ensured Bolton became the first British team to beat Red Star in Belgrade.

R IS ALSO FOR...

REAL MADRID

Bolton have recruited a number of players from the Spanish giants over the last few years, most recently in the summer of 2010 when Marcos Alonso swapped the Santiago Bernabeu for the Reebok. Other ex-Real stars to play for Wanderers are Ivan Campo and Fernando Hierro.

RECORD

Wanderers, along with West Ham, hold the record for the highest attendance at Wembley for an FA Cup Final. 126,047 turned out for the 1923 final in which Bolton were 2-0 victors.

THE PLAYERS

WARWICK RIMMER

The defender signed a youth contract with Bolton at the age of 15 in 1956 and began his long professional career with the Whites in 1960. He turned out over 400 times in the league, scoring on 17 occasions and also having a stint as club captain. In the 1972/73 season he lifted the trophy as the team won the Third Division Championship.

PETER REID

The ex-Manchester City, Leeds United and Sunderland manager came through the youth ranks at Bolton and signed professional terms in 1974. The Merseyside-born midfielder made 225 league appearances and won the Second Division title in 1978 before moving to Everton for £60,000 four years later.

MICHAEL RICKETTS

After signing from Walsall for £400,000 in July 2000, Ricketts scored 24 times in his debut season and netted against Preston North End in the Division One Play-Off Final. His goal scoring form continued in the Premier League, bagging 13 in the first half of the season and bagged the winner in a famous 2-1 win at Old Trafford. He later won a cap for England before signing for Middlesbrough in 2003.

RECOGNITION

After his continuous impressive performances for Wanderers, Kevin Davies received an England call-up in 2010, coming on as a second-half substitute against Montenegro. At 33 years and 200 days old he became the oldest player to receive a first England cap since Leslie Compton in 1950.

RED CARD

Wanderers have received just two red cards this season. Marcos Alonso was dismissed last weekend at Nottingham Forest and, after coming off the bench and hitting the winner against Cardiff in Dougie Freedman's first game in charge of the Whites, David Ngog was given his marching orders in the closing seconds.

YOUNG HANDS OLD HEAD

Wanderers have never lacked quality between the sticks. Over the last two decades, fans have witnessed goal-stopping heroics from the likes of Republic of Ireland international Keith Branagan, Finland's Jussi Jaaskelainen, and, more recently, Hungarian stopper Adam Bogdan. But the next talent to don the gloves for the Whites might be someone a little closer to home.

Academy graduate Jay Lynch has been affiliated with the club since he was 15. Despite competing alongside three other keepers in the shape of Bogdan, Andy Lonergan and Rob Lainton for his chance to shine, the Salford-born stopper is unfazed by the task at hand as he aims to break into Dougie Freedman's side.

The 19-year-old has been part of the Trotters' matchday squad on several occasions, taking his place on the Whites' bench eight times this season. Now the hard-working gloveman believes he is ready to take the next step, as Lynch gives the official matchday programme an insight into his career, from the early stages right up until the present day.

Jay, what originally sparked your interest in football?

I've always loved football. I used to play with my friends on a small field near my house. It was just a bit of fun, but there was an old woman who used to sit on her doorstep every day and watch us play.

She eventually told my dad to come and watch me play, and he did so without me knowing. I was only messing around with my mates, but the lady was impressed and she told him to get me onto a team.

I ended up playing for our local Sunday League club Fletcher Moss, and then I joined Manchester United when I was six.

How did it feel to get picked up by a club like Manchester United?

It was amazing. I was an United fan when I was younger and I used to go and watch them regularly, so that was one of the main reasons why I decided to join the club. I'd had interest from both Manchester City and Everton too, but it was too big an opportunity to turn down.

Have you always played in goal?

I actually played outfield a lot when I was very young, mostly as a winger. Unfortunately I was a bit of a chunky kid so I didn't really have the pace to play on the wing, so I went in net and I've stayed there ever since.

I actually worked with Bolton's old goalkeeping coach Fred Barber from about the age of five. He used to run goalkeeping sessions on a Monday night so I used to go there.

Would you say that Fred Barber has had a big influence on your career?

Definitely. When I was about 15, the goalkeeping situation changed at Old Trafford in regards to the coaches. So I spoke to Fred and he helped to get me into Bolton.

Having been there for nearly a decade, was it difficult to leave Manchester United?

It was a hard decision, but in the long run I had to do what I thought was best for my career. When you're a kid it's all about enjoying your football, but as I progressed through the ranks it gave me the confidence that I could make it.

Obviously I was disappointed that it didn't work out, but I had to think about how best to get to the top level and I thought my best chance was to look elsewhere.

How was it when you arrived at Bolton?

It was great. I did have a bit of a struggle when I first signed though. I had just joined the club and signed a three-year scholarship when I suffered a small hairline fracture in the bottom of my spine which sidelined me for a couple of months. But Fred worked hard with me to get me back to a level of fitness where I could train regularly.

It has been noted that you're slightly shorter than the other goalkeepers we have at the club; has that factor ever been a problem for you?

In comparison to your stereotypical goalkeeper I am a little bit shorter than average, but I think I make up for it in other areas.

For example, I'm particularly fast off my line and quick to claim crosses, all that has come from watching goalkeepers like Iker Casillas and Pepe Reina.

They're both quite small and agile like me, so I grew up modelling my game on them.

You were handed your professional contract last year, how did that feel?

It was brilliant. I'd been on the bench for the first team a couple of times beforehand so I was hopeful that I would be offered a contract soon, but it eventually happened and it was without a doubt the best moment of my career so far.

You're now up at Euxton on a daily basis, have you learnt a lot training with experienced keepers like Adam Bogdan and Andy Lonergan?

It's absolutely brilliant, they're always quick to praise me and give me advice if I need it. They've also always told me not to let my height get me down as I can do the things that they're doing.

They might have a bigger presence than me, but I've got attributes that they don't have thanks to my size. They've both been my age at one point, so they're just happy to give me encouragement and help me push on.

Has watching Adam break through into the first team been an inspiration to you?

Definitely, he's been in the same position as me so he knows how it feels. He's had to wait for his opportunity, but with a few injuries and bit of luck he got his break and he's not letting go of it at the minute!

As you mentioned, you've been on the bench quite a few times for the first team. Has that inspired you to now push on?

Absolutely. When your name is read out before the game, it just gives you goosebumps. Although you're only on the bench, it makes you hungry to get out on the pitch.

I almost got my chance this season as well against Wolves at Molineux when Adam got injured and I was told to warm up.

The weird thing was I wasn't nervous at all. I was on the verge of making my debut, but I just wasn't fazed which was a good sign.

With Josh Vela becoming involved with the first team of late, does the fact that you've progressed through the academy with him give you extra confidence as you bid to make your own debut?

It definitely does. I think the fact that we're all local lads as well has helped to get Bolton's name out there a bit more, especially in the Manchester area where people are tracking our progress.

Finally Jay, alongside pushing for the first team you've been the regular goalkeeper for the development squad over the last few seasons. What are your plans for the rest of the campaign and beyond?

Obviously having come so close to making my debut, I'm just working hard to try and get there. In the meantime all I can do is get all the experience I can by playing as much as I can, bide my time and hopefully my chance will come.
